About the Speaker:

Dr. James Peyton graduated from UCLA School of Dentistry in 1982. While maintaining a private practice in Bakersfield, CA, he is also a part-time clinical instructor at UCLA Center for Esthetic Dentistry. Dr. Peyton is a lecturer at Esthetic Professionals Education Center (Tarzana, CA) and a part-time clinical instructor at the Fahl Institute in Curitiba, Brazil. He has published several articles for Practical Procedures and Aesthetic Dentistry and The Journal of the American Academy Cosmetic Dentistry (AACD). Dr. Peyton is a fellow, an accredited member, and examiner for the AACD.

Course Objectives:

Upon Completion of the course participants will:

- Learn a predictable method to layer an anterior direct composite restoration to achieve a natural result
- Know a step-by-step technique to contour and polish a composite restoration to obtain natural tooth anatomy
- Understand the materials used to create a "life-like" restoration

Anterior Direct Resin Workshop– Class IV Fracture

Course Description:

This "hands-on" direct resin workshop will teach you how to perform a predictable and esthetic Class IV fracture repair on a typodont. Shade selection and color mapping will be demonstrated. Conservative preparation techniques and well as composite layering techniques will be used to create polychromatic restorations. Each participant will finish and polish a composite restoration to mimic natural teeth in both shape and surface detail.

Course Objectives:

- Understand instrumentation and tooth preparation
- To layer a composite restoration to create "life-like" result
- How to predictably finish and polish a composite restoration
